About Transitions Family Violence Services

Transitions Family Violence Services is the sole provider of comprehensive family violence services in Hampton, Newport News and Poquoson, and a co-provider of services for York County.

Transitions Family Violence Services is a nonprofit 501(c)3 organization formed in 1977. It is funded by the United Way of the Virginia Peninsula, grants from many sources and community contributions. Clients receive all services at no charge, although transitional housing clients pay rent according to their income.

The mission of Transitions Family Violence Services is to build safe and healthy families on the Virginia Peninsula. The agency assists adult and child victims through the provision of shelter, counseling and advocacy services. We work to increase awareness of domestic violence and provide opportunities for community members to participate in our mission.

About Hampton Roads Harley-Davidson

Hampton Roads Harley-Davidson was opened on Warwick Blvd. in Newport News, VA in October 1978 by Chuck and Mary Cox. Harley-Davidson was then AMF Harley-Davidson, a product not well received by the motorcycle community. But motorcycles were a passion for the owners and they were not discouraged. They made it through those years to open their second dealership, Southside Harley-Davidson on Witchduck Road in Virginia Beach, VA in February of 1990. Harley Haven, a clothing and collectible store on Atlantic Ave. in Virginia Beach was added the following year. In 1999, Revolutionary Harley-Davidson, another clothing and collectible store was opened in Williamsburg, VA. Other than the death of Chuck Cox in 1996, its been a great ride. These dealerships are committed to the highest quality service in the industry. With the overwhelming popularity of Harley-Davidson, they have made it a priority to provide personal service to each person that enters the stores. They handle "big business" in a uniquely one-on-one relationship. Motorcycles are still their passion.
